RULES

FOREWORD

In Condominium dwellings certain rules are necessary to preserve the rights of the individuals and to insure harmonious living. Every law or rule places some restrictions for the common good. Owners are entitled to complete use of their apartments and the outside facilities, but such use must not unnecessarily or unreasonably disturb or conflict with rights of other owners.

The following rules are dictated by common sense, fairness and decency. They may not be all-inclusive. Experience may reveal the need for amending or deleting existing ones. Wherever exceptional situations arise, necessitating possible justifiable departure from the rules, the Board of Directors will review the problem upon request and render a decision.

We have pleasant surroundings, a beautiful club house, as well as fine pools and recreation area. However, only by living up to the rules governing these areas can we all enjoy them.

OWNERS MUST INFORM THEIR GUESTS OF THESE RULES

Rules will be revised if and when they become obsolete, inequitable, or fail to cover existing situations. Suggestions for such changes should be submitted to the Association which at all times is concerned with the best interests of its members.

The officers, Board Members and Members of the Rules Committee would like to avoid the unpleasant duty of calling attention to rules violations. Your cooperation will be appreciated.

THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

 wherever the word "owner" appears, it includes an actual owner and any person holding a power of attorney or equivalent legal instrument, certifying that such a person is a legally authorized agent of the owner.
